

Chairman's Report

Another 3 months have past since our last newsletter and the gardeners are now preparing for winter but in July we held our 2nd Gardens Competition which was a great success. We had more entries than last year and the gardeners did themselves proud with outstanding gardens of all sizes.

We had the prize giving in late September and in the next newsletter we will give you the results and photographs of the prize winning gardens.

Please remember that the Council gives grants to local organisations. Contact us and see if you are eligible.

Next year is the Queens Diamond Jubilee, should we as a Council be organising or helping to organise special events? Any suggestions!

The council takes pride in our open space at Treloweth Community Hall, but someone is continually stealing the rose bushes in the borders. Reports have been made to the Police but anyone who has any information on these thefts please contact us or the local Police.

Please contact us on matters that the Council can provide assistance do not leave it to late!

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Carn Brea parish was formed 25 years ago when the old Illogan parish was split up to form the three separate parishes of Illogan, Carn Brea and Portreath.

Although this was a logical step logistically it has created problems, which have been compounded by nameless, faceless bureaucrats. Carn Brea now is a parish with a Redruth postcode and Camborne STD code. Many of the residents of the parish are unaware it its existence and think they live in Redruth. Many businesses would prefer to be identified with Camborne rather than Redruth and so use Camborne in their address: Cornwall College, Camborne and Camborne Business Park.

For many years, the Parish Council has been trying to give the parish an identity and improve its image. Boundary signs and stones now show people when they are entering the parish, the newsletter and website inform and promote, even the floral baskets and displays improve the ethos of the area.

The parish council has been investigating the name of the area and its historical implications. Extensive research has revealed that the whole area was known as "Carn Brea", not just Carn Brea Village or the hill. The name was used on property deeds, and official documents such as ration cards and medical cards. It was why the station was named "Carn Brea, also the post office.

The parish council has contacted the Post Office,

British Telecom and many other agencies and the nett result was that postal addresses are determined by an address officer, now with Cornwall Council. He keeps a database which is used by the Post Office, TV Licensing even credit agencies and all the other places which keep data on people. He has said that it would be a huge undertaking to compel residents to include "Carn Brea" as part of their postal address BUT the parish council would like to see residents include "Carn Brea" in their address if they wish.

To this end, the parish council has been the first, and the council's address now is:

Carn Brea Parish Council, Treloweth Community Hall, Moorfield Road, Pool, Carn Brea, Redruth TR15 3QB.

What about you?

HEARTLANDS UPDATE –

It has been a busy few months at Heartlands as both the project and the team take shape. Over a hundred skilled tradesmen including builders, carpenters, painters, engineers, plasterers, electricians and stonemasons hailing from all parts of Cornwall and the South West, have been working around the clock to bring the project to fruition – and every day there are a few more surprises!

Robnson's Shaft Engine House and Buildings

Keen observers will note that the scaffolding has now been removed from the Robnson's Shaft engine house and headgear which will become part of Heartlands' exhibition to celebrate its status as a World Heritage Site Gateway. Inside the engine house, local volunteers and steam enthusiasts have started cleaning the 80" beam engine which will eventually be put into motion in time for the opening of Heartlands. Mining experts from across Cornwall are also assisting the team to ensure the state-of-the-art interactive exhibition will accurately bring to life the stories of the local mining community.

Diaspora Botanical Gardens

Planting is underway in the Diaspora gardens with a diverse range of colourful botany from all over the world making roots in this once derelict piece of landscape. Trees and plants from New Zealand, Australia, South and North America and South Africa have been placed in the five gardens, which each relate to a country that the Cornish have emigrated to.

The first of seven major art installations to be introduced to Heartlands has been placed within the gardens. The work, by artist David Mackie, involves twelve Cornish granite boulders inlaid with bronze symbols and motifs representing the Diaspora countries. Entitled 'Seams and Veins', the boulders (originally sourced from Delank Quarry in Bodmin) also display a poem by Cornish artist and poet, Bob Devereux. This specially-commissioned work pays respect to the Cornish miners who "followed lodes across the globe", taking their unique skills with them to make "fortunes mining the rand gold reef"

Adventure Playground and Park

Exciting progress has been made creating Cornwall's biggest adventure playground.

Crescent from the courtyard

Cornish stone hedges now border this unique area designed by children which includes play equipment themed around Cornish history and legend from pirates to the Carn Brea giant! The playground, which includes a dedicated refreshment kiosk for patient parents, sits within extensive green parkland which will provide the perfect setting for a summer picnic or autumnal walk with the family.

Artist Studios

Fifteen newly built sunny art studios are now available for rent within the development overlooking what will be a very vibrant market square. Heartlands is looking for artists who will work and retail from the studios as an integral part of the visitor experience. In this way, visitors will be able to learn more about the creative processes involved in anything from jewellery making to pottery and then have the potential to buy the work once complete. Any artists interested in the spaces, should contact the Heartlands team to arrange a viewing on 01209 722320.

Chi-An Bobel Community Hall and Sustainable Apartments

Other new buildings have appeared on site in the past few months which include the Chi An Bobel (House of the People) Community Building, which will be available to hire for a diverse range of events from theatre performances to fitness classes to weddings.

Residential apartments above the artist studios are now structurally complete and have been put on the market through local estate agents in Redruth and Camborne. With both one and two bedroom homes available, house hunters have the unique opportunity to live on a World Heritage Site within walking distance of beautiful landscaped gardens and parkland. Photovoltaic panels on these new buildings will offset a huge amount of carbon emissions, along with the biomass boiler and wind turbine that will be installed on site

The Team

The Heartlands Trust has now appointed its first staff members to run the visitor attraction and heritage site at Robinson's Shaft. Vicky Martin was appointed as Chief Executive in June 2011, and was closely followed by Marketing Manager, Kate Turnbull. Vicky was formerly Director of Wentworth Castle and Stainborough Park Heritage Trust in South Yorkshire; and Kate has marketed tourist and heritage venues for the past 9 years including Edinburgh Zoo, Edinburgh Castle and most recently the British Academy in London.

Sean O'Brien from Carn Brea Leisure Centre was appointed in mid-August as Finance and Resources Manager at Heartlands and Tracey Frankish, who has previously managed commercial and catering operations at the Manchester Art Gallery and the National Trust's Wimpole Estate has now taken over the role as Commercial Services Manager, completing the Senior Management Team.

Coming up

The Heartlands development, which is being funded through a £22.3m grant from the Big Lottery Fund and investment from the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA), Cornwall Council and the European Union, will create new jobs, training and volunteer opportunities. The diverse and exciting range of positions available will be advertised by the Trust throughout the autumn ahead of the opening of the site to the world in the spring of 2012.

September will see more art installations arriving on site by national and international artists including Walter Jack, Michael Rowe and Wolfgang Buttress. The Carpenter's Restaurant will begin to be fitted out with kitchens for those all-important cream teas and Sunday Roasts, and the inside of the exhibition should start to take some real shape.

Please do keep an eye out in the local media for up to date news and information, and visit www.heartlandscornwall.com to see a state-of-the-art animation of the finished Heartlands attraction. Swoop through the adventure playground, whet your appetite for our new restaurant and splash over our water feature and get a real impression of what you can expect when we open. You are also more than welcome to attend one of our weekly guided tours for a closer look at the developments, please call 01209 722323 for more details.

FOOTPATHS AND THE DEFINITIVE MAP

Carn Brea has 4934 metres of public rights of way in the parish – a total of 37 pathways which are registered on the definitive map.

In addition to these paths are many others which are not on the definitive map. These unregistered paths are at risk and so the Parish Council would like to have as many as possible added to the definitive map.

In order to do this the Parish Council would have to apply for a modification order and would need user evidence. This is to prove that the public has used the path for at least 20 years.

The Parish Council would like to hear from members of the public about any paths they consider at risk or would just like safeguarded.
